OLD BEAVER

HISTORY OF BEAVER COLLEGE

BEAVER COLLEGE was founded as a seminary in 1853, and was chartered as a college in 1872. It is one of the oldest institutions in Pennsylvania devoted to the higher education of women, as well as one of the oldest colleges in the United States. For more than seventy years it was located at Beaver, Pennsylvania, twenty-six miles northwest of Pittsburgh. Desirous of securing a better location and a more adequate plant, enlarged facilities, and greater opportunities for development, the Trustees, in the spring of 1925, decided to move the college to Jenkintown, Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia. The change resulted in so greatly increased an enrollment that the Board of Trustees found it desirable to impose limitations on the annual enrollment in order to maintain the advantages of a small college.

It soon became apparent that additional property would be needed to provide for the expansion of the College. In the autumn of 1928, the Trustees were fortunate in securing a nearby estate known as "Grey Towers" which, with its spacious grounds and stone buildings, provides a campus of great dignity and beauty.

The College is connected with the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. It is approved by and reports annually to the Synod of Pennsylvania. By Charter amendment, two-thirds of the members of the Board of Trustees are required to be members of the Presbyterian Church. The Faculty are required to be affiliated with an evangelical Christian Church. The College requires Bible study of all students as a basis of moral education and of standards of conduct. Its teaching and regulations, however, are strictly non-sectarian in spirit and practice, and no denominational tests are required for admission or graduation.

Senior Class History

AFTER four brief years we, the Senior Class, are looking down the long road into the future with hearts that are full of the laughter and tears we have shared at Beaver. During our freshman year we learned to love Beaver and the ideals for which she stands. It was an especially happy year when much of the time not actually used in attending classes was spent in promoting the Baby Party, the Hallowe'en Party, the Song Contest, and many other exciting events. With the arrival of May Day and the participation of ten of our number in May Day festivities, we realized with a sigh that our first year was quickly drawing to a close.

During our sophomore year, we continued to work together as a class. Our picnic, given for the seniors at Bowling Green, was only one of the memorable occasions of the year.

Before we knew it we were juniors. That year was matchless. We won both the Song Contest and the Interclass Play Contest. Then came the Prom which we all worked to make the unparalleled event of the year. The decorations which represented deep sea life were truly unique. The formal dinner for the juniors was just one of the exciting happenings of the same week-end. Two months later, at the Junior-Senior Breakfast, one perfect morning in May, each junior received her class ring from a senior. At last we had earned the symbol of a senior.

When we proudly occupied the front rows in chapel, we realized the dignity of our position. Through the efforts of Eleanor McKinnon, Grace Means, Florence Murphy, Katherine Nichols, and Eileen Bell, in A Toast We Can Drink, we won the Interclass Play Contest again. With that and the passing of each other event our goal seemed closer. Only a few weeks intervened between the Senior-Faculty Breakfast and the beginning of the second semester when we proudly donned our caps and gowns for the Tuesday evening chapel services.

Soon leaders for the various activities of Senior Week were appointed as follows: Chairman of Senior Week, Grace Means; Chairman of the Tea Dance, Wilma Haack; Chairman of Class Day, Florence Schilling; Chairman of the Senior Luncheon, Sylvia Glickman; Chairman of the Senior Play, Katherine Nichols; Chairman of Invitations, Helen Slater; and Chairman of the Lantern Chain, Eileen Bell.

We leave Beaver with countless memories of priceless friendships, immeasurable experiences, worthwhile opportunities, and pleasant associations. May we prove worthy alumnae.

Dear Eini
 I'm not much good

Registration. The gym looks like Grand Central Station for everyone is dashing around. There are many signs leading to different destinations—A.B., B.S., Mus.B., B.F.A.

Freshmen. All we see are in green caps tilted at one hundred and seventy-nine precarious angles. Could it be that three years ago we wore those affairs at rakish angles too?

OCTOBER

Baby Party. Three baby parties have come and gone. Once we wore rompers and baby dresses and tied bows in our hair, but now we only watch.

Reception. Each fall brings long lines of hands and platitudes which we accept gracefully, smilingly, while we wish we had reached the end because we can hear the orchestra in the distance.

NOVEMBER

Song Contest. We really have plenty of good voices, talent, blue skirts and white shirts. Surely our ability will be recognized sometime.

DECEMBER

Christmas. We hold lighted candles and sing old carols around a Christmas tree. Then we watch stunts at a pajama party where we eat more than the proper amount of cake with our cocoa.

JANUARY

Exams. Toward the end of the month there is a profusion of blue books and a hurried search for knowledge. The halls are silent. Hours of frantic scribbling leave the results, we think, as we look at our ink-stained fingertips.

FEBRUARY

Basketball. We sit on the sidelines watching gray suits racing across the floor and hoping we will have a chance to play. We have a chance, play hard, feel the tense silence before the toss up, and experience the tired elation of a game well-won.

Prom. At last the long-looked-for occasion arrives. We dance to Smith Ballew's orchestra, surrounded by modernistic buildings, under a starry sky. We sit on a roofgarden, scan the horizon, and wonder why the song writer didn't call his song "June in February."

MARCH

Retrospect. We remember the sound of rain splashing against window panes, the slippery steps on snowy days, chocolate ice-cream sodas at red and grey tables, chapel on windy nights, and the long hours spent in the library doing outside reading.

APRIL

Spring Fever. A regular epidemic invades the campus. We sit for long hours at the open window with notes, books, pens, and blank paper scattered about us, but we are oblivious to all these. We are dreamers, poets—it is spring again!

MAY

Pageant. We dance and watch others dance on the Grey Towers lawn. We watch the bushes. The stands are filled with people. A queen is being crowned. Long may she reign!

May Day Dance. The fragrance of spring intermingles with the dim lights and harmonious music. We watch silver slippers move in time to soft music; then we see them dancing out into the softer moonlight. . . .

JUNE

Graduation. Each year we have watched black caps and gowns file out of chapel for the last time and start down the road into the future. Another year and we, too, shall disappear into the great unknown.

Sophomore Class History

YO, heave ho!

Here come the sophomores!

Ho! Ho! Ho!

And so, with summer memories still lingering in our minds, the Class of 1937, with renewed spirit and vitality, was launched upon another successful year.

Our freshman year had been a great success, a year long to be remembered. We had participated in all the important events on the campus; we had made friends, the real friends who make it hard to leave school in June and make us look forward to the opening day in September. We had gained valuable experience, new thoughts and ideas, helpful knowledge.

The first important event this year gave us a chance to show our ability. At the Interclass Play Contest, held in the early fall, a sophomore, Catherine Mitchell, carried off the honors for the best individual acting. The play was "Just Women."

The evening before Thanksgiving vacation began, all masts were set toward winning the annual Song Contest. The sophomores appeared in neat costumes of brown and white, each carrying a Beaver pennant. Our original songs, our pep and vitality, all helped us to show our versatility and win us first place in the Song Contest! Cheers and shouts of joy, air filled with crimson banners, laughter, and a brown and white "snake dance" through the corridors, brought the end of the Song Contest with a big "splash."

Shortly after this we were again sailing along merrily as we heralded in another Yuletide Season.

Bright lights, snow-laden evergreen, red-ribboned holly wreaths, peppermint canes, all connoted that Christmas had come once more. Again the sophomores entered into the holiday season and did their part by putting on a gay skit at the pajama party.

The new year! With another big "splash" the sophomores entered spring activities. Basketball, hockey, archery, tennis, swimming on one shore! Proms, dances, skits and concerts on the other shore! And the sophomores ended another year's journey by landing on the Isle of Success.

As we depart for the summer, each sophomore is proud of her class, proud of its

Freshman History

NOW that this college year is sweeping to its close, a flood of memories comes crowding through our minds. Who could forget the groups of nervous, excited freshmen who settled themselves, bag and baggage, in the halls of Beaver College at the beginning of this college year? There was the wild search for rooms, the sinking sensation that keys for trunks had been forgotten, the feverish unpacking, and the hasty arranging of those rooms we had worked so hard to find.

Then came the first freshman chapel exercises at which Dr. Greenway made us happy with his cordial welcome. How important we felt when special rules and regulations were prescribed for us! Freshmen always relish such regulations, for they create college spirit and keep the student body conscious of one's existence, thereby increasing one's self-importance ten-fold.

And the green caps! With what pride we freshmen flaunted them before the public. Why shouldn't we have been proud of them? They signified our introduction into the higher realms of learning.

One of our first social gatherings was the picnic at Grey Towers. Here were assembled all the freshmen, each of us attended by a member of that blessed society, the "Big Sisters." What could we have done without them? It was they who guided our steps through strange halls, and strange duties.

Then came the Hallowe'en party given by the freshmen, of course. Ghosts glided somberly across

Emi, my love-
you are divine!
I do not know how I have lived without you,

the floor, devils madly whirled before our eyes, and bewitched cider and ginger cookies regaled us.

At last arrived the greatest of contests in which the freshmen have a part, the Song Contest. Although the competition between the classes was keen, the freshman "Pep Song" won honorable mention. But the sad part of the affair was that at its close the freshmen had to toss into a heap the green caps to which they had become so attached.

In addition to these experiences, which were open to all, innumerable escapades went on behind the scenes. Indeed, some of these bring back the happiest memories of our college life.

As a parting word, we, the present freshmen, wish to warn you, Upper Classmen, that you had better be careful, for we promise you that with our budding potential powers, we are going to perform deeds worthy of history.

Pentathlon

PENTATHLON is the honorary athletic society of Beaver College. During the past year the club extended its program beyond the usual Faculty-Pentathlon basketball and baseball games to a Faculty-Pentathlon volley-ball game. At the latter game the faculty took the measure of the school athletes by scoring a one-sided victory.

The social activities of the year were climaxed by the annual dinner which marked the election of officers for the coming school year.

This year the society also adopted Tuesday as Pentathlon Day, at which time all members wear white sweaters with green and white club emblems.

Athletic Association

ALL students of the College are members of the Athletic Association which sponsors and supports not only the varsity sports but also the intra-mural sports program. The A. A. Board is the executive committee of the association.

This year the Board was enlarged from seven to twenty-one members, excluding our faculty advisers, Miss Ward and Miss Morgan. This enlargement was effected by including varsity sport managers, intra-mural managers, class managers, and head cheerleaders.

The following girls constituted the A. A. Board this year:

JANE KEPNER	Head Cheer Leader
RUTH MANSON	Publicity Director
ELEANOR MCGARVEY	Social Chairman

Hockey

THE Beaver hockey team, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Morgan, showed a fine record at the end of its season. With only one defeat recorded against the team, and that a defeat by one point, Beaver has good reason to congratulate herself and her hockey team on the 1934 season.

The most memorable victory was that over Ursinus College. With classes dismissed for the purpose of viewing the game, most of the College stood on the side-lines, regardless of the freezing wind, to cheer the maroon-clad team. Both teams went to the field grimly determined to end the three-years' deadlock. The spectators witnessed one of the finest exhibitions of hockey ever put on by two teams at Beaver before Beaver penetrated Ursinus territory to make the last goal of the game. At half-time the score stood one-all. The two-one victory belongs not only to the hockey players, but to the enthusiastic supporters who gave them the power to win.

Basketball

ON MARCH 14, the Beaver College basketball team closed what had proved to be a most successful season. Out of the ten games, the girls suffered defeat only once, and that at the hands of their arch-rival, Ursinus. The game was played at Beaver. The following week, a return game was played at Ursinus. Beaver came through to cancel its previous defeat with a 21-20 victory.

One of the outstanding features of the season was a weekend trip to William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Virginia. A combination of 26-23 victory and true southern hospitality left nothing to be desired in the way of enjoyment.

Cheer Leaders

THE student body this year could hardly help catching the infectious "pep" of its cheer leaders. We congratulate this lusty group of girls who have so ably inspired our teams to play the game well and who have shown the rest of us how cheering should be done.

The freshmen have offered willing support to the varsity cheering squad and have supplied five capable leaders to join those already wearing the maroon and grey.

The enthusiasm displayed at our meetings, the clever cheers, and the new songs which have been added this year, are proof of the ever increasing interest in sports at Beaver. With the cheering squad ready to lead us, we go on striving for a one hundred per cent support of our athletic program.

Emi, I hope to see you next year.

One Hundred Thirteen

Dear Emi.
What can I say and how can I say it. Words are quite useless at times aren't they -- I couldn't wish you anything better than others have wished you in this book. The year has seemed all too short for I haven't had the chance or place of knowing you better. There still are other years though. I certainly have enjoyed your cheery smile and laughter. Always be just as you are, Emi.

you have said and done have inspired me.

We pledge our love to Becler dear
And always thy dear name revere.
Thy honor bright shall never die,
We'll always keep thy colors high.
White's for our comic sports' plays,
Black's for our sterner tragic days.
When we're apart,
We'll keep in our heart,
Dear Becler, sweet memories of you.

THE Becler curtains drop once more after a splendid year of entertainment under the enthusiastic direction of Miss Isabelle Collins.

Beclex opened its theatrical season by sponsoring the second Interclass Play Contest. Four clever one-act plays were presented to a highly appreciative audience, the silver plaque being again awarded to the senior class for its achievements in A Toast We Can Drink by Stokes McCune. The award for the best individual acting went to Catherine Mitchell, a sophomore, for her clever pantomimic acting in Just Women by Colin Clements.

Sara C. McMahon's play, The Waiting World, was presented at Grey Towers on Sunday, December 16. Beautifully illustrated programs were Dr. Greenway's contribution to the success of this sixth annual Christmas drama at Beaver.

The children's play, Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp, by Elizabeth Dooley, was one of the best performances ever given by the club. It is difficult to say whether the younger children or the older ones enjoyed it more, but it is certain that none of them will ever forget the camel with the expressive feet. This play was followed by three more one-act productions in April and by the Senior Class Play in Senior Week.

The Beaver College Orchestra

THE Beaver College Orchestra was organized last year under the leadership of Professor Charlton L. Murphy. Weekly rehearsals were held throughout the year and a public recital given in June. This year the organization is under the supervision of Professor W. Lawrence Curry and Mr. Thomas Barlow. Though the majority of its members are students in the Public School Music department, several girls from other courses are included in the group. Invitations to join the orchestra have been extended to musicians from neighboring schools. Thus the orchestra hopes to be of value to the community as well as to Beaver College.

Choir

MANY changes have taken place at Beaver this past year. Among them has been the reorganization of the Choir under the direction of Mr. W. Lawrence Curry. The group has become well known to us through its participation in our Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday night chapel services.

Glee Club

EACH year our Glee Club adds to its list of accomplishments. This year, besides giving sacred concerts in many of the churches in and around Philadelphia, the Club gave a concert at the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall in Atlantic City where it was entertained during the week-end of December 15. The Club also sang and was entertained at the Hotel Dennis in Atlantic City one week-end in April. Later in the spring it gave its annual broadcast over Station W.C.A.U.

Mr. Martin is to be congratulated on his able direction of the Glee Club.

May Day Committee

THIS year a new system of developing the May Day program was put into effect. During the summer the members of an Idea Committee, which had been organized shortly before school closed, gathered materials and ideas for a story around which they wove the May Day pageant.

The setting of the pageant which they finally chose was a tiny fourteenth century English village where the peasants had gathered to celebrate May Day. The occasion was a particularly joyful one because the king and queen came to witness the celebration and to crown the May Queen. The villagers were proud to present their program of dances and plays before such an audience although their plans were somewhat upset by the disappearance of the May Queen. However, she was safely returned and the day ended happily.

may you be happy always.
I have enjoyed your stories of Japan so much.

The Student Government Association

THE Student Government Association is one organization in which every student is urged to take part. The aim of all its work is to seek the best for each individual. Although everyone cooperates in its activities, the authority to make and enforce regulations is vested in the members of the Student Council, who are suggested each spring by the Nominating Committee, and elected by the student body. The council consists of eleven members representative of all classes, dormitories, and day students. It was capably guided this year by Mrs. Zurbuchen, Social Adviser, and Dr. Barnes, Faculty Representative.

The Council not only regulates the social order, but also plans and assists in parties, informal teas, and freshman orientation week. Its major undertaking, however, is May Day, the annual fete for graduates and under-graduates.

The Honor Council

DURING the past four years in which the Honor Council has been in existence, it has done an admirable piece of work. Beaver is elated and perhaps a wee bit conceited over its Honor System. It is proud to feel that its girls are of sufficiently fine caliber to make such a system feasible. The spirit of the school is the very back-bone of an organization of which the Honor Council is only the visible manifestation.

The Honor Council is composed of eight members appointed by the Nominating Committee. Dr. Thomas is the faculty adviser. His kindly criticism and advice are sincerely appreciated.

Nominating Committee

THE Nominating Committee of Beaver College was established five years ago to facilitate the fair election of candidates for the various offices connected with student activity in the College. The Committee ascertains, as far as possible, the qualifications of each girl and makes nominations for offices. After the nominees receive the approval of the advisers, the student body is given an opportunity to vote for those whom they consider best fitted to carry out their ideals.

The Committee is composed of girls representing the various leading organizations on the campus. During the past year the Committee consisted of the presidents of the Y.W.C.A., the Honor Council, the Student Government and the Athletic Association, the four class presidents, and the Chairman of the Point Committee. Mrs. Zurbuchen and Dr. Barnes were the advisers.

Dormitory Council

THE Dormitory Council is a comparatively recent organization. It came into being to fill the need for some definite body the particular responsibility of which is to see that the dormitories are kept in good order and that quiet hour is a reality instead of a mere name. The work of this organization is an important factor in making Beaver pleasant and comfortable, and in producing an atmosphere favorable for study.

The Council, which is a branch of the Student Government Board, is composed of the presidents of the dormitories and an adviser from the Board. This year the practice of electing members instead of appointing them was adopted.

Lambda Delta Alpha

LAMBDA DELTA ALPHA is the senior honor society of Beaver College. It was organized in the fall of 1932 by one of the faculty committees in recognition of outstanding academic achievement combined with superior character, personality, and promise of leadership. Elections are made at the close of each college year by the faculty committee on honors. To date sixteen members have been elected. These are:

EACH year the annals of another graduating class are recorded in the college yearbook, the BEECHBARK. This year's Staff, like all preceding Staffs, has earnestly endeavored to give a faithful portrayal of college life with all its hopes, joys, and little triumphs. It has sought to do more than merely recount happenings; it has tried to reproduce the very essence of events and the spirit of the girls. The Staff realizes that even its best efforts have been inadequate, yet it hopes that in some ways at least the new book has measured up to your expectations.

The Staff wishes to thank both the class which entrusted this task to them and Dr. Craig for her gracious assistance in the production of this book.

The Beaver College Review

THE Beaver College Review, the college literary quarterly, is nearing the close of its fifth year of service to faculty and students. The magazine has always endeavored to give recognition to every student whose work in the field of English has seemed worthy of notice, and has encouraged everyone, irrespective of department, to contribute material. As an incentive to contribution to the magazine, three annual awards were established several years ago for the best short story, essay, and poetry appearing in the magazine.

Beaver News

THE Beaver News is a newcomer on the campus this year. It is a fortnightly newspaper published by the students under the direction of Dr. Matheson. Its purpose is to circulate information and to unite the two campuses more closely. Although still in its infancy, it has been enthusiastically received by the student body and has already won for itself a very definite place in the life of the College.

The Y. W. C. A.

THE Y.W.C.A. plays a large part in our campus life. It sponsors many of the activities on the campus such as the Getting Acquainted Picnic, the Baby Party and the Christmas Carol Service. It also provides outside speakers for Sunday chapel. During the past winter the Association broadened its work within the school by organizing debates on current topics of special interest to college girls.

This year the Y.W.C.A. also introduced a new system of active membership. The entire student body are nominal members, but for those who are especially interested in Y.W.C.A. work, various activities are provided.

Freshman Y.W.C.A Cabinet

THE Freshman Cabinet is made up of girls who are preparing to take an active part in the major Y.W.C.A. Cabinet. Under the direction of Dorothy Green of the senior organization, the girls take charge of the social service work of the association.

During the present year the girls have told stories at the Abington Hospital, conducted a sewing class at the day nursery, and given a Christmas party for some of the Jenkintown children. They have also conducted a doll-dressing and scrap-book making contest. The dolls and books were given to a local organization for distribution.

Psi Alpha

THE purpose of Psi Alpha is to stimulate the growing interest in psychology at Beaver College, to discuss subjects of paramount interest to the group, to contribute to the equipment of the Psychology department, and to promote good fellowship among its members.

The club meets twice each month. The programs include lectures, debates, discussions, and experiments. Most of the work done during the past year was of an experimental character.

During February the club had the privilege of hearing Katherine Graves Green, of Michigan University, lecture on child psychology and tell of her work with pre-school children.

Dear Emi -
 It seems so long ago to our first meeting, but I hope many years pass before we meet.
 Remember I still live in N.Y. and am hoping to see you. My friends can not express how much I enjoy your friendship.
 Alberto.

Junto Club

THE Junto Club of Beaver College was organized for the purpose of encouraging greater interest in history and in current problems. It has been ably guided by Dr. Clarke, the head of the History department. The program of the semi-monthly meetings of the club includes lectures, debates, and discussions led by members of the faculty or the club.

One of the most popular meetings was a masquerade party to which the girls came dressed as their favorite characters in history. Those who attended the party included Betsy Ross, Helen of Troy, Queen Elizabeth, Walter Raleigh, Henry VIII, Catherine of Russia, John Alden and Priscilla.

In commemoration of the two-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the original Junto Club in Philadelphia by Benjamin Franklin, a formal dinner was given. Miss Rebecca Schriver, the first president of the Junto Club of Beaver College, was the guest speaker at the dinner.

The French Club

THE French Club is an organization which all students of French are invited to join. Its purpose is to afford its members an opportunity to broaden their knowledge of the language, especially in oral work. Meetings for the most part are informal gatherings of girls conversing and playing games in French. Occasionally a paper is presented by one of the members, and once a year a play is given. At one of the last meetings it is customary for the club to have an outside speaker as its guest.

The activities of the French Club are carried on under the capable direction of our adviser, Madame Frank.

Spanish Club

THE Spanish Club is open to all members of the Spanish department. The programs for the monthly meetings include the singing of songs, games played in Spanish, and the discussion of topics of special interest to Spanish students. At the annual club dinner in February Miss Virginia Polanco spoke to the club on "Life in Havana."

The most important event of the year, however, was the presentation of the "Night in Spain" program. This was given in the gym which was decorated in a manner reminiscent of a Spanish cafe. The honors of the evening were unanimously accorded to the faculty quartette whose rendition of "The Man on Flying Trapeze" was greeted with much applause and repeatedly encored. The guests were further entertained by members of the club who recited poems, sang, and staged a mock bull-fight.

German Club

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN was organized to enable the students of the various German classes to meet as one group. This year the club has had meetings of a very diversified nature in order to interest both the beginning and advanced students of German. Probably the outstanding meeting of the year was that at which Dr. Zeeb told of her travels and experiences abroad. The talk was illustrated with beautiful slides. Trips to the museum, current German motion pictures, and plays have also been included in the activities of the club.

The Commercial Club

THE Commercial Club had its origin in the desire of the students in the Commercial department to familiarize themselves with modern business methods. The membership of the club is restricted to the junior and senior classes and to those of the sophomore class who have a high scholastic standing. Freshmen who maintain a high average are eligible at the end of their third quarter. Through frequent meetings and social affairs the club fosters a spirit of cooperation and good fellowship among its members.

Health Education Club

THE Health Education Club is composed of all students in the Health Education department. Once a year the club presents an exhibition to show the various types of work offered in that department. The club also sponsors roller-skating parties and picnics.

Dear "Emi,"
I consider myself lucky to have met you. You are

Art Fellowship

THE Art Fellowship of Beaver College is a chapter of the National Federation of Art. The purpose of the club is to stimulate interest in art and to raise the standard of the work done at the college.

The most outstanding event sponsored by the Art Fellowship this year was a reception for Mr. Spruance, the head of the Art department, whose prints, previously exhibited in New York and Philadelphia, were placed on exhibit in Green Parlors.

The Classical Club

"THE glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome." This is the keynote of the Classical Club, a delightfully informal group of students of Latin and Greek, under the direction of Miss Peirce. During this last year the group studied mythology. Borrowing the wings of Mercury, they explored from the depths of Tartarus to the lofty peak of cloud-capped Olympus.

At the first meeting, two members who have made a trip to Italy told of Rome and the other places of interest to classical students. The talk was illustrated with pictures and photographs.

If you should happen to step into Room 14 on certain Thursday evenings, you would see assembled there a bevy of Roman maidens, for our Beaver girls wear for their meeting the ancient costume—the stola.

Dear Lini,
I miss you the best of times in anything you do.
Linda

Chemistry Club

THE Chemistry Club is another of those organizations arising from departmental interests. It combines social activities with a study of such topics of scientific interest as cannot be considered in the classroom. Experiments, demonstrations, and talks by members are regular occurrences at its meetings. Trips are made to various places of scientific interest. This year the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia was one of the most memorable points on the itinerary. Early in the second semester a banquet is held for the newly initiated members.

A high scholastic standing is required for membership in the Chemistry Club.

International Relations Club

IN THE spring of 1934 the International Relations Club of Beaver College was organized under the leadership of Dr. Ryland for the study of international affairs. The club is directly connected with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace which has its headquarters in New York City. Through this Endowment the club this year was able to present a lecture by Mr. Pierre de Lanux, who was at one time director of the Paris Office of the League of Nations. From the Carnegie Endowment the club also receives a number of excellent books on pertinent subjects, and fortnightly summaries of international affairs.

During the past year one of the members of the club had the opportunity of attending the regional conference of the International Relations Clubs at Pennsylvania State University and of bringing back a number of helpful suggestions which the club plans to incorporate in its work.

WASHINGTON

BY APPOINTMENT TO HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND

TO THE English girl, bred with the ideal of loveliness always before her, Yardley is as much a tradition as her debut or her presentation at court. . . . and both in England and America you'll find the most exquisite preparations by Yardley to add glamour to school life. English Lavender Soap . . . Face Powder . . . Complexion Cream keep your skin like rose petals. And English Lavender Bathsals . . . Dusting Powder . . . Wave Lotion . . . Bath tablets packed in your trunk or sent after you in exciting packages immediately give you the reputation of an elegante among your friends. Yardley rouges and lipsticks come in the new bright shades Mayfair is wearing, for your weekends. All sorts of new, aristocratic Yardley toiletries are found in your nearest fine department store, in fact. Why not look for them next time you pass that way. Yardley & Company, Ltd.; 620 Fifth Avenue (Rockefeller Center), New York City; 33, Old Bond Street, London, and in Paris, Toronto, Sydney.

Best wishes to the Class of 1935!
Again, Molloy-made cover is used to the 1935 BEECHBARK. Year after year
Molloy-made covers embody that extra measure of quality that guarantees staffs all over the country the ultimate in appearance and durability. 1936 staffs can make a fine start by specifying "Molloy."

Portraits in High Key

The result of our latest development in photography

The extremely delicate tones of light and shades accentuate that indefinable, illusive something, that for lack of better terms, we call "chic or charm"

EXCELLENCE

"Excellence is not a mantle put around our shoulders by destiny. It is something attained by thought and act."

PUMUNANGWET
(He Who Shoots the Stars)

... who dares to attempt even the unattainable with the conscious pride of an unconquerable spirit.

Excellence in Annuals is attained. There is something a book has, or does not have—and the "ability" to know what to do to make a book different and distinctive—is something you cannot buy indiscriminately at any price.

When a Staff places their Annual in our hands, they immediately have at their disposal a service that is truly exceptional and complete. We look beyond the dotted line of the contract to broader horizons. Your problem becomes ours. Our resources of experience and facilities become yours.

Our cumulative knowledge of years in this line of work is applied understandingly and sympathetically to your specific aims. Cost is held to a figure in sensible proportion to the result to be accomplished.

Back of our organization is the spirit of "He Who Shoots the Stars"—vision—ambition—confidence—strength—and with the Staff catching this spirit along with us, the result will be an Annual which can be passed on to your Classmates with pride.

What Ho - Emie!

Now that Nan + I have just returned from gorging ourselves at Baumback's, a saigorn into the Greenways and incidentally nuts and ice cream. I feel quite benign. I always feel that way toward you though, even with out having been properly fed.

I wouldn't have missed knowing you for any thing Emie, even though I am such a flit I feel that we still have a great deal in common, especially our friends Nan and Kay. We could form a mutual admiration society for them any day couldn't we? Besides think of what smooth ice cream kings we'd make. I could run the freezers and you could take charge of the cones. Let's do that, it would be so much fun to know what I was going to do next fall. We'll practice on the cones this summer + will see then if we still want to go into business, having eaten our fill of them.

With Nancy promenading here in all kinds of costumes it's a bit difficult to say what I mean, but any how I admire you most tremendously. I'm counting on seeing you next year when I come back. And I'd love to have you visit me in Carole Manor any time you can come. My Dad + I would love having you.

I'll leave my "great inspiration" in your charge next year so please be kind to her and don't let her forget her derby little friend with you?

Nancy insists upon chattering so what can I do against such odds. Jean Smith has appeared + is adding her two cents so I must beat a hasty retreat.

Good night - & sweet dreams - and love to you - from Mary P. J.
